Dear Prof.Arora,

I trust that this email finds you well.

My name is Gladys Ekyem-Andoh, and I am the Impact Manager at BMGA Foundation, which is the primary philanthropic arm of BMGA Enterprise Limited (BMGA). Our work is guided by the mission to encourage inclusivity and gender balance in the business environment.

We would like to request your assistance in publicizing our notice of application for the 2022 BMGA Fellows Program in your prestigious institution.

The BMGA Fellows Program is a social impact initiative designed to narrow the gender skills gap among university graduates in Africa and Asia. It is a six-month online transformative learning program designed to equip young women with the knowledge, access, and resources required to gain fundamental employability skills that strengthen their marketability for a successful career in the 21st Century. The program offers high-level professional development courses, mentorship from graduate students in top global universities, coaching from executives with international experience, exclusive conversations with renowned thought leaders, and life skills that are designed to prepare young women for the future of work.

We would like to note that The Association of Commonwealth Universities (ACU) is an official partner for the BMGA Fellows Program. This program is also supported by students, professors, and subject experts from the African Society of Cambridge University (ASCU), University of Lagos, University of Ibadan, University of Pretoria, El Skills Group, Storywork International, Thunderbird School of Global Management, Gallup, Imperial College

Business School, University College London, New York University, Women at Risk International Foundation (WARIF), and Femme Minty, just to name a few. All participants in the 2021 cohort were given full-tuition scholarships by Giants of Africa Foundation.

To the best of our knowledge, the University of Delhi is one of the best institutions of higher learning in the Republic of India. Since its establishment, it has admitted students from diverse cultures and gained several honorable achievements in terms of quality education and research. It has also been recognized as one of the best in human development causes in the country as well as the world. For that reason, we have concluded that University of Delhi is an ideal destination to find eligible students/participants for our program.

Launched in 2020, with participants only from Nigeria, we expanded our scope in 2021 and launched the first Pan-African cohort made up of individuals with keen interests in Business, Finance, Law, and STEM; with 19% of the 2021 cohort as first-generation university graduates and 14% coming from a marginalized ethnic group in Africa. So far, the impact of the program on the career trajectory of the young women is already evident. Some of our Fellows, who are resident in over ten (10) countries across the world, have already gotten admissions with scholarships into top graduate schools in Hungary, Italy, and the US i.e., Georgetown Law and the University of California, Berkeley. Others have received job offers from top law firms and tech companies (both domestic and international).

For the 2022 cohort, the program would accommodate participants from Africa and Asia. Please find attached the 2022 application flier and a Word document containing the publicity overview of the program.

I have also provided a link to more information about the BMGA Fellows Program on our website for your kind reference - www.bmgaenterprise.com/bmgafellowsprogram

We look forward to hearing from you and working with you to democratize high-quality education across Africa and Asia.

Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me via phone at +233 268 604 713 or email at gladys.ekyemandoh@bmgaenterprise.com

Thank you.

Kindest regards,
Gladys

Apply for the 2022 BMGA Fellows Program!

Applications are open for the third cohort of the BMGA Fellows Program.

Deadline: Thursday, 10 March 2022; 11:59 PM [WAT]

BMGA Foundation presents the 2022 BMGA Fellows Program. A social impact initiative designed to narrow the gender skills gap amongst recent university graduates in Africa and Asia. It is a six-month online transformative learning program designed to equip young women with the knowledge, access, and resources required to gain fundamental employability skills that strengthen their marketability for a successful career in the 21st Century.

This program offers high-level professional development courses, mentorship, and life skills designed to prepare young women for the future of work. Our Fellows are resident in over ten (10) countries across the world such as Nigeria, Ghana, Malawi, South Africa, Uganda, Zambia, the United States of America, Russia, Hungary, and South Korea

Furthermore, The Association of Commonwealth Universities \(ACU\) is an official partner for the BMGA Fellows Program and previous cohorts of the BMGA Fellows Program have been supported by Giants of Africa, African Society of Cambridge University (ASCU), University of Lagos, University of Ibadan, EI Skills Group, Story work International, Gallup, Imperial College Business School, University College London, Sterling Bank, Women at Risk International Foundation (WARIF), and Femme Minty, just to name a few.

Once selected, participants go through an intensive six month learning experience that utilizes modern technological tools and resources to aid transformational learning. The program consists of modules led by industry experts, professors, and thought leaders from top institutions across the world. With the use of live classes, group discussions, and other learning tools, participants can gain new insights into the skills required for the dynamic business environment.

Some of the benefits include mentorship pairings with graduate students top global universities such as the University of Cambridge and Imperial College, one-on-one career coaching from executives with international experience, fire-side conversations with world-class leaders as they share their blueprint to career success, and access to the invaluable Alumni Network with individuals in over ten (10) countries worldwide for further learning, networking, and lifetime support.
