

WOMEN DEVELOPMENT CELL,

Women Development Cell, Bharati College, University of Delhi aims for encouraging women's studies, ensuring equity, and addressing women's social, political, and economic issues in society and at the university level. Our focus is to aware students of the women-centric issues and the significance of the differences between feminists and feminazi. For ensuring the holistic development of WDC, the faculty and the students must actively participate in events, activities, and seminars/webinars for which we are opening entries for registrations of the volunteers'22. Interested students can send their details through the google form which will be followed by an interview for the shortlisting of the final team by the WDC members.

All the faculties of various departments are requested to share this information with their students and motivate them to provide their names for the same.
