To Whomsoever it may concern,

I am writing to recommend the services of Anjali Akriti. Anjali has interned under our organization as a legal researcher and Public Relations Intern from February 6 to April 6, 2021.

As a Legal Researcher, she had researched on topics such as “Freelance journalists and their rights, benefits, dangers in the field”, “Foreign Contributions (Regulations) Act “, “Inter state laws for travel and carriage of goods” and “Social security benefits provided to employees in India”. Her research was meticulous and precise and her research reports concise and self explanatory. Her work in the research team was conducted with such professionalism and perfection that the content writers could easily write articles based on her research.

As a Legal Content Writer, she had written articles on topics such as “Things to keep in mind while drafting an architectural agreement”, “How to criticise judiciary without contempt of court”, “Right to recall and its applicability in India” and “Laws on sedition in India”. Her articles were of such quality that they were immediately selected for publication.

Further, despite being a journalism student, Anjali has never been cause for complaint when conducting legal research. She has even assisted in legal consultation for our clients which ended up satisfying them to the fullest. Further, her consistent and passionate work at the organization has resulted with her being awarded a merit certificate. I thus feel confident in recommending Anjali’s researching, hard-working, consistency, professionalism and punctuality abilities.

She is not only thorough but also easy to work with and always willing to take the time to discuss my concerns and respond to questions. Further, she is easily adaptable to different situations and focuses on doing her work strictly as per operational and client requirements.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me.
